The Millennium Development Goals Report

2009

UNITED NATIONS

The good news is that we have evidence that the declines we are seeing are due, at least in part, to HIV prevention.

However, the findings also show that prevention programming is often off the mark and that if we do a better job of getting resources and programs to where they will make most impact, quicker progress can be made and more lives saved.

Michel Sidibé, Executive Director of UNAIDS.

UNAIDS Outcome Framework 2009–2011: nine priority areas

- ▶ We can reduce sexual transmission of HIV.
- ▶ We can prevent mothers from dying and babies from becoming infected with HIV.
- ▶ We can ensure that people living with HIV receive treatment.
- ▶ We can prevent people living with HIV from dying of tuberculosis.
- ▶ We can protect drug users from becoming infected with HIV.
- ▶ We can remove punitive laws, policies, practices, stigma and discrimination that block effective responses to AIDS.
- ▶ We can stop violence against women and girls.
- ▶ We can empower young people to protect themselves from HIV.
- ▶ We can enhance social protection for people affected by HIV.

What is aids2031?

aids2031 is a consortium of partners who have come together to look at what we have learned about the AIDS response as well as consider the implications of the changing world around AIDS.

Based on innovative thinking, critical analysis and public debate, aids2031 will create the report An Agenda for the Future—charting options to achieve the best possible outcome for the future.

aids2031 is about mobilizing the global AIDS response to include a long-term view and take into account the consequences of our actions as well as inactions.

ESTHER STRATEGY

The members consider that an integrated approach combining prevention, comprehensive care and treatment is the unique way to fight against HIV/AIDS. To support this approach, each member defines and implements activities in agreement with the national authorities of the partner countries, in coherence with the national policies and programmes and the international strategies.

The members of the European ESTHER Alliance have decided on a Charter as a common reference for the ESTHER stakeholders to encourage evidence-based good practice and optimize the relevance, sustainability, efficacy and efficiency of the ESTHER interventions .

ESTHER objectives and field of intervention mentioned in the Charter are:

1. To provide capacity building and technical assistance in the area of HIV/AIDS treatment and care, and to promote international cooperation on HIV/AIDS, by developing and supporting twinnings between hospitals from the North and hospitals and health centres from the South as well as the involvement of civil society, encouraging exchange of knowledge and know-how,
2. To support national strategies for people living with HIV, including national solidarity mechanisms, technical assistance, and the process of decentralisation, as well as to ensure continuity of treatment and care, with a continued dialogue and coordination with the national actors, and by working through multi level and multi disciplinary partnerships, including hospital establishments, social networks, civil society and decentralised health centres,
3. To promote access to treatment for people living with HIV/Aids, including HAART (Highly Active Antiretroviral Therapy), by
